MOSES LAKE – ROCKY FORD ARM PHOSPHORUS SEQUESTRATION PROJECT

Ryan Van Goethem, CLM, with EutroPHIX gave a presentation on the final report of the Moses Lake – Rocky Ford Arm Phosphorus Sequestration Project. Key project findings included:

- External and internal P mitigation demonstrated improved water quality above the annual impacts of CRW dilution.
- Interception of Rocky Ford Creek P with EutroSORB WC reduced SRP inputs by 34-63%. Additional binding from EutroSORB WC is expected to occur in upper Rocky Ford Arm water and sediments.
- Sediment P mitigation with EutroSORB G is effectively binding and storing P in sediments. This treatment provided most of its binding (64% avg) in the first 16 months and will continue to provide additional impact until EutroSORB G is bound to its full capacity in following years.
- Rocky Ford Arm had 54% and 59% lower total phosphorus concentrations in 2024 and 2025 relative to comparable years of CRW mixing.
- Rocky Ford Arm had 55% and 52% lower chlorophyll-a concentrations (algae biomass) in 2024 and 2025 relative to comparable years of CRW mixing.
